LIBRARY matters

Hello ECAReaders!

I usually tell you about Middle School or High School books, but this time I want to mention some Elementary books that have been recently cataloged and are great books!

"The Cat Man of Aleppo"
(E LAT)

An award winning story about a man who decided to care for the cats (and other animals) that were left behind by the people fleeing Syria during the war there. This is based on a true story.

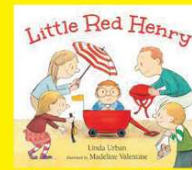

"Honeybee-- The Busy Life of Apis Mellifera"
(E 595.79 FLE)

In this book you are able to follow the life cycle of a worker bee in her hive. The illustrations make you feel as though you are working alongside her. Very interesting.

"Sparky" (E OFF)

This book is about a little girl who wants a pet. Her mom says she can have one that doesn't need to be walked, fed, or bathed. What kind of pet do you think she gets?

"Little Red Henry" (E URB)

Henry is the youngest in the family and is treated like a baby, but he isn't a baby anymore. Will his family let him be a BIG boy?

Also, don't forget to come and browse through all our Halloween stories. We will help you find the book that is just right for you on the scariest night of the entire year! Come by and give us a visit.

-Jan Itriago, cataloguer

Andrea De Olival (11th) has her independent study class in the library. She and other students have self-guided classes during the independent study time.

Banned Books Month

We in the Library get a kick out of the students when they come up to the window and ask, "Are we allowed to read these books?" As incredible as it may sound, there are still some institutions and groups who try to limit what people can read because of some of the themes that they don't agree with. This month, we are promoting some of the books that have been prohibited throughout the ages for reasons concerning language, theme, social constructs, etc. If you get a chance, come on by and check out the window full of our banned books...which you can freely check out.
